

Architectural elevation drawing of a building facade. The drawing includes a vertical height scale on the left side, ranging from 2700 to 3200, with intermediate markings at 2750, 2800, 2850, 2900, 2950, 3000, 3050, 3100, 3150, and 3200. The building facade is divided into several vertical sections, each labeled with a unit number (01, 02, 03, 04, 05, 06, 07, 09, 10) at the top. The facade features large windows, balconies, and a brick section on the left. The drawing also shows the ground level (GFL: +105.4) and various floor levels (1FL: +108.6, 2FL: +111.6, 3FL: +114.6, 4FL: +117.6, ROOF FL: +120.6, PARAPET L: +121.1, PARAPET L: +122.65). The building is set against a background of trees and a sky.

A detailed key plan of Kilgobbin Castle. The plan shows two main buildings: Block A, an orange-shaded U-shaped structure, and Block B, a grey-shaded L-shaped structure. A red line outlines the perimeter of the castle grounds, with a blue line segment on the right side. Dimensions are marked with black lines and numbers: '4' on the top left, '3' on the bottom left, and '3' on the bottom right. A compass rose in the bottom left corner indicates North (N), South (S), East (E), and West (W). The text 'Kilgobbin Castle (in ruins)' is written above the main title 'KEY PLAN' and 'NTS' (Not To Scale).
